

Bi-embeddability relation on computable structures

Ekaterina Fokina

Vienna University of Technology ekaterina.fokina@tuwien.ac.at

In computable structure theory, structures are usually considered up to isomorphism or its effective versions. Another natural equivalence relation that appears in the literature is bi-embeddability. In this talk we summarize some of the results about bi-embeddability on computable structures and compare them with the known results about isomorphism.